"... Another interesting denizen in the house rack is an Isochrone 10M atomic clock from Antelope Audio (antelopeaudio.com). "My friend Andy Meyer, who mixes Justin Timberlake right now, said 'you have to hear what happens with the Antelope clock,'" Van Druten explains. "We did some A/B tests and it really made a huge difference. It really affects imaging, panning and depth within the stereo field. It's very noticeable. I've got 80 inputs of stuff I have to find space for and being able to sharpen that area up has been great. I wound up buying one from Sweetwater. The Antelope clock is now a definitive part of my arsenal."
